Message from the Director

For a second year in a row, statutory changes have resulted in massive operational changes for the Whistleblower Office and to the Whistleblower Program. Following adjustments to operations resulting from the passage of Section 41108 of the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2018 (BBA 2018), effective July 1, 2019, the Taxpayer First Act of 2019 (TFA 2019) added, to IRC § 7623, several important provisions that would help improve taxpayer service, ensure the continual enforcement of the tax laws in a fair and impartial manner, and ultimately support the continued success of our nation. The new law also extends greater employment protections for whistleblowers against retaliation.

In general, under TFA 2019, the Whistleblower Office shall now disclose to individuals providing information related to any purpose described in paragraph (1) or (2) of section 7623(a), whether the IRS referred the information for audit or examination; whether a payment of tax was made with respect to an issue raised by the whistleblower; and upon written request, provide information on the status and stage of any investigation or action related to such information and in the case of a determination of the amount of any award under section 7623(b), the reason for such determination. We are actively engaged in adjustments to operations to meet the mandatory whistleblower requirements outlined in the TFA 2019.

Overall this year, the Whistleblower Office made 181 awards to whistleblowers totaling $120,305,278 (before sequestration), which includes 24 awards under IRC § 7623(b). Proceeds collected were $616,773,127. Included in the proceeds collected, as a result of § 7623(c), are the non-Title 26 amounts collected for criminal fines, civil forfeitures, and violations of reporting requirements amounting to $110,003,100. Title 26 amounts collected were $506,770,027. Whistleblower claim numbers assigned in FY 2019 decreased by 7.3 percent from those submitted in FY 2018, and closures increased by 29.8 percent.

In FY 2018, we provided readers new information in Table 2B to address a question that was frequently asked about the number of claims referred to Examination. This year, I have included a new chart, Figure 4B showing for the first time, the number of whistleblowers by geographic regions. An interesting factoid from Figure 4B is there are 282 whistleblowers from foreign regions. The number may or may not surprise you. Either way it demonstrates the Program's reach internationally.

In closing, the Whistleblower Office continues to encourage all individuals with specific and credible information about tax noncompliance to provide this information to the Government by filing a claim on Form 211, Application for Award for Original Information, with the Whistleblower Office.

Lee D. Martin

Director, Whistleblower Office

In FY 2019, the Whistleblower Office made awards to whistleblowers exceeding $120 Million and collected $616.8 Million.

Background and Program Evolution

The Tax Relief and Health Care Act (TRHCA 2006) added IRC § 7623(b), which enacted significant changes in the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) award program for whistleblowers. TRHCA set a new framework for the consideration of whistleblower submissions and established the Whistleblower Office within the IRS to administer that framework. The TRHCA 2006 requires that the Secretary of the Treasury conduct an annual study and report to Congress on the use of IRC § 7623. The annual study and report to Congress includes any legislative or administrative recommendations for IRC § 7623 and its application. This report discusses the IRS Whistleblower Program activities for FY 2019 in satisfaction of the reporting obligations under the TRHCA 2006.

The Whistleblower Office coordinates with other IRS units, analyzes information submitted, and makes award determinations. If a submission does not meet the criteria for IRC § 7623(b) consideration, the Whistleblower Office may consider it for an award pursuant to its discretionary authority under IRC § 7623(a). A whistleblower must meet several conditions to qualify for the IRC § 7623(b) award program. The information must be:

- Signed and submitted under penalties of perjury,
- Related to an action in which the proceeds in dispute exceed $2,000,000, and
- Related to a taxpayer, and for individual taxpayers only, one whose gross income exceeds $200,000 for at least one of the tax years in question.

If the information meets the above conditions and substantially contributes to an administrative or judicial action that results in the collection of proceeds, the IRS will pay an award of at least 15 percent, but not more than 30 percent, of the proceeds. The award percentage decreases for cases based principally on information disclosed in certain public sources or when the whistleblower planned and initiated the actions that led to the tax law violations. Whistleblowers may appeal the Whistleblower Office's award determinations under IRC § 7623(b) to the United States Tax Court (Tax Court).

The IRS pays awards from proceeds, and as such, award payments cannot be made until the taxpayer has exhausted all appeal rights and the taxpayer no longer can file a claim for refund or otherwise seek to recover the proceeds from the government. Therefore, the IRS generally cannot make award payments for several years after the whistleblower has filed a claim.

On February 9, 2018, Section 41108 of the BBA 2018 amended IRC § 7623 by adding a new subsection (c): Proceeds—For purposes of this section, the term 'proceeds' includes—(1) penalties, interest, additions to tax, and additional amounts provided under the internal revenue laws, and (2) any proceeds arising from laws for which the Internal Revenue Service is authorized to administer, enforce, or investigate, including—(A) criminal fines and civil forfeitures, and (B) violations of reporting requirements.

On July 1, 2019, Section 1405(a) of the TFA 2019 added to IRC § 7623 several important provisions to help improve taxpayer service, to ensure the continual enforcement of the tax laws in a fair and impartial manner, and to ultimately support the continued success of our nation. The new law extends greater employment protections for whistleblowers against retaliation.

Also, the Whistleblower Office will now notify the whistleblower when a case for which the whistleblower has provided information has been referred for audit or examination. The Whistleblower Office will also notify the whistleblower when the taxpayer the whistleblower identified has made a tax payment with respect to which the whistleblower's information relates. In addition, the whistleblower can submit a written request for information on the status and stage, or action related to such information; and reason for an award determination on the amount of any award made under IRC § 7623(b), for the correlating whistleblower claim.

Program Developments

Operations

During FY 2018, the Government Accountability Office (GAO) completed an audit of the Whistleblower Office with one outstanding recommendation remaining at the beginning of FY 2019. The recommendation was to modify the Form 11369, Confidential Evaluation Report on Claim for Award, which documents how whistleblower information was used in any IRS actions taken, regardless of whether the laws administered, examined, or enforced are outside of Title 26, such as FBAR penalties. The Whistleblower Office both modified and published the Form 11369 in FY 2019, completing the final GAO recommendation.

Staffing

In FY 2019, the Whistleblower Office staff was comprised of 37 full time employees with decades of experience in a broad array of IRS compliance programs.

Outreach and Communications

The Whistleblower Office maintains a page on the IRS Intranet for IRS personnel and provides articles for internal newsletters and speakers for professional education events. There is also a dedicated page on the IRS website, www.irs.gov,¹ that provides information for the public about the Whistleblower Program. The website includes links to the final regulations, the Form 211, and Publication 5251, The Whistleblower Claim Process and Timeline, which provides information on filing a whistleblower claim for award, the timeline for each step in the claim process, and common reasons for rejection or denial of claims.

The Whistleblower Office has continued its outreach efforts utilizing IRS social media accounts, as well as publicly subscribed newsletters. The Whistleblower Office continues to utilize Twitter, @IRSNews, @IRStaxpros, and the E-Tax Professionals Newsletter that continues to garner many views. The Whistleblower Office also shares relevant information regularly with stakeholders through its listserv.

Whistleblower Office representatives made presentations to professional groups and attended conferences representing taxpayers and whistleblowers. By attending these functions, the Whistleblower Office obtains an outside perspective on the Whistleblower Program. The Whistleblower Office also provided consultation to other federal agencies and tax administration authorities from other nations, as they evaluated options for establishing their own whistleblower award programs.

Administrative Priorities and Issues

Administrative Guidance

In FY 2019, the Whistleblower Office published significant updates to the procedures for IRS employees responsible for handling whistleblower claims and information. Many of these updates address the BBA 2018 amendments to IRC § 7623, which expanded the scope of proceeds for award purposes to include non-Title 26 amounts, which includes criminal fines, civil forfeitures, and violations of reporting requirements involving cases where the Report of Foreign Bank and Financial Accounts (FBAR) penalties were assessed. For example, during FY 2019, the Whistleblower Office updated and published Form 11369 and its Instructions.

The TFA 2019 amended IRC § 7623 to provide statutory protections from retaliation to IRS whistleblowers, and amended IRC § 6103 to specify the Service's authority to disclose return information to whistleblowers during investigations and to provide for additional mandatory administrative disclosures to whistleblowers regarding cases for which they have supplied information. To implement the amendments mandating certain administrative disclosures, the Whistleblower Office revised its procedures to send the notices that are required when a case for which the whistleblower has provided information has been referred for audit or examination. The Whistleblower Office will also notify the whistleblower when the taxpayer the whistleblower identified has made a tax payment with respect to which the whistleblower's information relates. In addition, the whistleblower can submit a written request for information on the status and stage, or action related to such information; and reason for an award determination on the amount of any award made under IRC § 7623(b), for the correlating whistleblower claim.

Issues of Interest

1. Rules on access to and disclosure of taxpayer information could provide stronger protection for taxpayers.

Since FY 2010, the Whistleblower Office's Annual Reports have noted concerns regarding the disclosure of taxpayer information to whistleblowers. IRC § 6103 provides authority for the IRS to disclose taxpayer information to whistleblowers in certain, limited instances. The enactment of the TFA 2019 addressed some of the circumstances in which most disclosures to whistleblowers arise. In particular, the new provisions addressed the Whistleblower Office's concerns regarding disclosures made to whistleblowers in order for agents to obtain information during investigations and examinations. IRC § 6103(k)(13)(A) now allows for such disclosures to be made specifically to whistleblowers, and other amendments subject whistleblowers who receive such information to section 6103's general prohibitions on disclosure, and to criminal sanction if they re-disclose information provided to them in violation of section 6103.

Despite the new provisions in the TFA 2019, additional taxpayer protections remain necessary with respect to many disclosures made during the administrative award determination process and resulting appeals to the Tax Court. In addition to the mandatory and discretionary disclosures required by the new IRC § 6103(k)(13)(B), the IRS makes, and will continue to make, many disclosures in the administrative proceeding and before the Tax Court pursuant to the authority of IRC § 6103(h)(4). Recipients of disclosures under 6103(h)(4) are not bound by any prohibition on re-disclosure under 6103 and are not subject to potential civil or criminal penalties for unauthorized disclosure. Out of an abundance of concern for taxpayer confidentiality, the IRS takes the extra measures of requiring confidentiality agreements and asking the Tax Court to issue protective orders to limit the ability of whistleblowers to re-disclose return information that is provided to a whistleblower under the authority of IRC § 6103(h)(4). The effectiveness of these tools is limited. The IRS has no legal authority to impose any restraint on whistleblowers re-disclosing return information following the completion of the administrative and judicial processes. The absence of such protections has become more relevant in the context of extensive discovery requests for taxpayer examination files during Tax Court proceedings. Notably, the taxpayer is not a party to the whistleblower litigation, and as such, the taxpayer typically has no knowledge that its confidential returns and return information may be disclosed to the whistleblower and thus, no impetus to intervene in order to ensure its information is protected. Further, in some cases the Tax Court has taken an expansive view of the scope of disclosures allowed under IRC § 6103(h)(4). Whistleblowers with no relationship whatsoever to the taxpayers with respect to whom they've provided information have attempted to gain access to large swaths of those taxpayers' returns and return information merely by having claims denied by the Whistleblower Office and then pursuing discovery during an appeal to the Tax Court.

2. Statutory clarification needed on submitting information and claiming awards.

IRC § 7623 provides for awards, in some cases mandatory, when the IRS proceeds with an action based on a whistleblower's information. The mandatory award provisions require that information be submitted under penalty of perjury. Separately, IRC § 7623(b)(3) refers to a "claim for award" without providing any further specifics. The Whistleblower Office understands the statute to require a whistleblower to submit the claim for award, like the information, before the IRS proceeds with an action. While information comes into the IRS from a variety of sources, relatively few individuals that provide information to the IRS do so with the intent to claim an award. The claim for award is the only trigger available to the Whistleblower Office for classifying an individual as a whistleblower for purposes of IRC § 7623. The claim for award also allows the Whistleblower Office to contemporaneously track the IRS's use of whistleblower information, and proactively manage the Whistleblower Program. Clarifying the statutory claim filing requirement would strengthen the Program by ensuring that Whistleblower Office resources are devoted to filed claims.

Whistleblower Program Results

Under IRC § 6103, returns and return information are confidential, unless an exception applies. There is no exception in IRC § 6103 that permits the publication of data on identifiable, individual whistleblowers. The IRS may, however, disclose information in aggregate form when the data cannot be associated with, or otherwise identify a taxpayer (or whistleblower). In compliance with these disclosure rules, summary data on awards paid, receipts, closures, and claim status appear in this report.

Awards Paid, Fiscal Years 2017 to 2019

Table 1 provides current and historical information on awards paid and collections attributable to whistleblower information, prior to the sequestration reduction described below. The number and amounts of awards paid each year can vary significantly, especially when a small number of high-dollar claims are resolved in a single year. The year in which an award is paid is generally not the year in which collections occurred because the IRS must wait until there is a final determination of proceeds, which means that the taxpayer has exhausted all appeal rights and the taxpayer no longer can file a claim for refund or otherwise seek to recover the proceeds from the government.

In March 2013, the Office of Management and Budget issued a notice regarding the impact of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended. This law required reductions in expenditures, also known as sequestration, starting March 1, 2013. The applicable sequestration reduction may change from year-to-year. As applied to payments under IRC § 7623, the required reductions in FY 2019 were 6.2 percent of the amount that would otherwise have been payable. Sequestration reductions totaling $7,458,927 were applied to awards paid during FY 2019.

Since 2007, the Whistleblower Office made awards in the amount of $931.7 million based on the collection of $5.7 billion. In FY 2019, the IRS made 181 awards, totaling $120,305,278 prior to the sequestration reduction; the total award amount represents 19.5% of total amounts collected. In FY 2019, 24 of the award payments made involved IRC § 7623(b) claims.

In some cases, individuals submit multiple claims relating to the same information. In other cases, as the Tax Court has noted, whistleblowers submit numerous claims based entirely on publicly available information—some whistleblowers have submitted hundreds of such claims. To date, the Whistleblower Office has sought to process and respond to all claims filed by whistleblowers. While it will continue to do so, the Whistleblower Office will also continue to look for ways to address duplicative or non-meritorious claims in a summary fashion, both to focus its administrative resources better and to guard against the unnecessary or inadvertent disclosure of confidential taxpayer return information.

Total Claims Related to Awards and Average Days to Process Awards, Fiscal Years 2017 to 2019

Figure 2 provides the average processing days for award claims paid under IRC § 7623(a) and 7623(b). Generally, the IRS does not pay awards for at least eight years after the whistleblower has filed a claim because a payment cannot be made until there is a final determination of proceeds. This is consistent with information provided to whistleblowers that awards may not be paid until several years after receipt of the claim.

Total Stand-Alone, Master, and Related Claim Numbers by Month in Fiscal Year 2019

Figure 3 identifies trends and fluctuations as they pertain to Form 211 submissions to the Whistleblower Office and claim numbers issued each month in FY 2019. Figure 3 identifies the submissions as stand-alone, master, and related claim numbers. Stand-alone claim numbers are defined as submissions identifying one taxpayer. Generally, multiple claim numbers are assigned when the claim submission identifies multiple taxpayers. When multiple taxpayers are identified, the claim is then subsequently identified by a master claim number, with related claim numbers. For each master claim number identified below, there are at least two related claim numbers.

Fiscal Year 2019 Receipts, by Operating Division

Table 2(A) below provides additional information on submissions received in FY 2019. This table identifies the IRS operating divisions to which claim numbers are assigned for review and action. Matters involving taxpayers with assets of more than $10 million are under the jurisdiction of the Large Business and International (LB&I) Division, while matters involving businesses and individuals that do not meet that threshold are generally assigned to Small Business and Self-Employed (SB/SE) Division. Claims involving pension plans, exempt organizations, or governmental entities are referred to Tax Exempt and Government Entities (TE/GE) Division. A claim initially assigned to LB&I, SB/SE, or TE/GE may be referred to Criminal Investigation (CI) Division if the operating division's development of the case reveals a potential criminal violation. The Whistleblower Office also makes direct referrals to CI, such as cases where the allegations relate to illegal source income or other matters where development by a civil operating division would be unnecessary or inappropriate.

The table also identifies the claim types. Claims listed as IRC § 7623(b) include any claim that appears to have the potential to exceed the $2 million threshold under IRC § 7623(b)(5)(B), with all others classified as IRC § 7623(a) claims.

Table 2(A): Fiscal Year 2019 Receipts, by Operating Division

NOTE: Data reported as of September 30, 2019.

⁴ The designation of a claim as a potential IRC § 7623(b) claim should not be treated as final and is contingent on the results of IRS actions that will often not be known for years and ultimately, may or may not reach the $2 million threshold.

Whistleblowers by Geographic Region Fiscal Year 2019

Figure 4(B) shows the geographic location of all whistleblowers by region in fiscal year 2019. The regions consist of the Western, Central, Eastern, and Foreign geographic locations. The data counts a distinct whistleblower only one time, regardless of whether the whistleblower submitted numerous claims throughout the fiscal year or filed a claim in conjunction with other whistleblowers.

Open IRC § 7623(b) Claims as of Fiscal Year 2019

Figure 5 shows the number of IRC § 7623(b) claims remaining open as of September 30, 2019, by year received. The Whistleblower Office uses information provided by the whistleblower to determine whether a claim has the potential to result in proceeds in dispute exceeding the $2,000,000 threshold for IRC § 7623(b). The designation as a potential IRC § 7623(b) claim is not treated as final. The Initial Claim Evaluation (ICE) Unit conducts an initial review of the whistleblower's Form 211 submission to identify potential IRC § 7623(b) claims. ICE then forwards the potential claims to subject matter experts (SMEs) in the IRS operating divisions. The SME then determines whether the whistleblower's information will be provided to field offices for further investigation, taking into consideration the quality of the information provided, IRS enforcement priorities and, in some cases, legal limitations on the use of the information submitted.

Description of Processing Phases

Intake/Classification	Intake/Classification process includes claims submitted to the Initial Claim Evaluation (ICE) Unit for review and analysis. The ICE Unit builds the claims, and the claims are then sent to the OD's classification function for further review. The primary function of this process is to determine which claims require additional review from the Whistleblower Office or the ODs. This process includes claims which have no current status, claims which require additional information, incomplete claims, new claims, and claims awaiting classification.
OD Field/Investigation	OD Field/Investigation process includes claims sent to the various ODs for investigation after classification's review. The current statuses included in this process are claims under OD Field Examination, claims being reviewed by the OD's Subject Matter Experts, and claims under initial review by the Criminal Investigation Division prior to accepting the claim for investigation.
OD Field/Suspense	Claims submitted often include multiple taxpayers, potential related taxpayers, and claims which might fall under the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act (TEFRA). The OD Field/Suspense process includes claims which are awaiting the closure of an associated claim, to allow all claims to be closed out simultaneously. This process includes the status for claims in which the case is suspended because the OD is evaluating a bulk claim involving a large number of taxpayers, or the claim still has related claims in process, or the claims are awaiting the resolution of a TEFRA key case.
Appeals	This process involves the status on claims in which the taxpayer has sought review by the IRS appeals function or the courts.
Preliminary Award Evaluation	Preliminary Award Evaluation process involves claims with current statuses including administrative proceedings for either rejections or denials, or for Preliminary Award Recommendation Letters (PARL).
Interim Award Assessment	This process includes the review of all claims which have been returned from the ODs that require additional review. The current statuses in this process include approvals for award percentages, award evaluations, final award approval, final award processing, Form 11369 award recommendation and coordination review, reviewing the results of the ODs to determine whether sufficient information exists to make an award decision, managerial PARL approval, and the review of pending rejection and denial letters.
Collection/Suspense	Collection/Suspense process involves the monitoring of tax accounts associated with claims for payment of the deficiencies.
Award/Suspense	This process includes cases which have been suspended, and cases in which the payment has been received but is awaiting final determination of proceeds.
Final Review	Final Review process includes Award Recommendation Memoranda and letters for rejections and denials, which have been approved, or are awaiting approval from management.
Litigation	The litigation process includes the claims where the whistleblower has sought litigation regarding an award determination made on the whistleblower's claim.

Closure Reasons for Fiscal Year 2019

In FY 2019, the Whistleblower Office closed 16,655 claims, a 29.8 percent increase from FY 2018 closures. The four most common factors for closures were:

- Rejected claims with a non-specific, non-credible, or speculative allegation.
- Claim was surveyed by the OD. The OD decided not to pursue due to various reasons including but not limited to; the quality of the claim information, enforcement priorities, statute of limitations is too short for enforcement action, and lack of collectability.
- The issues were below the threshold for IRS action.
- Claims denied due to the examination resulting in a “no change,” or the issues utilizing the information provided by the whistleblower resulted in a “no change.”

Additional items of interest regarding the various reasons for closure are listed below:

- There may be multiple closure reasons associated with a claim.
- When a submission identifies multiple taxpayers, different closure reasons could apply to different taxpayers, based on the results of IRS actions regarding each taxpayer. For example, there may be an award paid with respect to one taxpayer and a denial due to a “no change” result with respect to another taxpayer.
- The closure reasons distinguish between examinations that find no additional taxpayer liability and those in which a liability was found on issues other than those identified by the whistleblower. Awards are paid only when the IRS takes action based on the information provided by the whistleblower. When the information provided by the whistleblower has no relevance to the adjustments, the claim is denied, and the closure reason applied is “Claim Denied - Whistleblower Issue Was ‘No Change’.”

Table 4 provides a summary of the closure reasons for closures that occurred during FY 2019. The data was grouped into similar categories and is displayed as a percentage of the total closures.
